2007 Humanitarian Award for Compassion Through the Arts presented to Kaziah Hancock

*Presented by 2007 First Lady of Utah,

Kaziah Hancock, known as the "Goat Woman" because of her love of goats, which she raises on her Sweetwater Goat Ranch in Manti, Utah is the founder of Project Compassion. Project Compassion is the only organization expressly founded to gift families gallery-quality original oil portraits of American service men and women who have died since September 11, 2001.

Founded in 2002, Project Compassion delivers 18" x 24" framed paintings as a legacy of courage and appreciation. Utah artist Kaziah Hancock has been so moved by the sacrifices of American lives during the war in Iraq that she is determined to pay tribute, through her work, to each one of those men and women who lost their lives.
